1. The Examiner has carefully considered Applicant's Response of 3/17/06. In regard to the traversal of the Restriction Requirement, the Examiner does not find Applicant's traversal persuasive. A mere allegation that the search is not overly burdensome to the office is not persuasive. In particular, the Examiner has met his burden by asserting that the product can be formed by a patentably distinct process, that Applicant has provided no substantive rebuttal against. Additionally, a search of the present patent literature for the terms (refractory + silicide + intermetallic) results in a finding of approximately 710 patent and patent publication documents, a substantial number of pages to review.

The Restriction Requirement is made final.

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

4. Claims 1-21 and 23-43 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Xu et al. and further in view of Jackson et al. US Pat. No. 6,428,910 (Jackson et al. '910).

Xu et al. discloses the invention substantially as claimed. Svedberg et al. discloses a method of making a composite comprising:

- providing a high temperature melting powder;
- adding a low temperature melting powder to form a powder mixture;
- forming said powder mixture by a method selected from a group comprising roll forming (col. 7, line 38) into a foil; and
- further processing of said foil at a temperature to form an intermetallic composite.

Xu et al. further discloses wherein said powder mixture is selected to form a niobium silicide intermetallic composite.

Jackson et al. '910 further discloses wherein an applied refractory silicide intermetallic is applied to a surface to form a composite with a graded composition. Jackson et al. '910 further discloses wherein element constituent ranges overlap those as claimed by Applicant, establishing a prima facie case of obviousness in regard to this limitation.
